OH External Timber Composite Doors
- customised quality and design

Composite Sandwich Construction. An OH door is manufactured as an insulating polystyrene core sealed within two 6 mm aluminium stabilising sheets and cross - banded veneers, which provides exceptional stability, durability and thermal efficiency.

Panels. OH panels are available in various types - made to measure - for use in doors or as panels.

Flush panels are available in various veneers, HDF etc., with optional narrow v-profiles or wide door profiles.

Raised and fielded panels in solid timber or HDF are available with various profiles.

Other panel options are also available. Please contact us for more details.

Trend

Trend is our basic series. With its simplicity and functionality the design is perfect for most houses. Profiling and window shapes can be combined in many different ways, each with its own classical expression.

A warm welcome with OH

The Entrance door is the first thing that guests see on arrival – their first sign of welcome. Therefore the door should match the architecture of the house in order to present a coherent solution.

O.H. Industri A/S offers a wide range of timber composite doors and panels, enabling you to configure a product range customised to your market requirements.

Here are some examples of our products.

Your own design

- in OH quality

Door panels. At O.H. Industri A/S we use original OH door panels in our own doors, and also make them available for you to use in your own products. With the wide choice of profiles you can create your own exclusive door designs.

Opening the door for cooperation. We are always available to discuss how we can provide you with a range that gives you the opportunity to offer exciting new products to your customers. For more information, call us on +45 9725 1200 or send an e-mail to ohi@oh-industri.dk. We will get back to you immediately.

Tradition

Tradition is a door for slightly older houses or classical style new developments. There is a wide choice of window shapes and profiles, or genuine panels for a noble and stylish appearance.
